A distinguished tax professional with over 14 years of experience, Ashley Fogle is a proud alumna of Oklahoma State University, where she earned her B.S. in Accounting and Finance in 2010. Currently serving as a Tax Partner at HoganTaylor LLP she brings a wealth of expertise in tax compliance, planning, and consulting.

Ashley's diverse clientele includes closely held businesses, pass-through entities, and high-net-worth individuals. However, her passion lies in the nonprofit sector, where she is recognized for her considerable expertise working with private foundations, civic organizations, universities, and various public charities. Beyond traditional tax services, she serves as an outsourced CFO/controllers for several nonprofit organizations, playing a key role in their financial well-being and strategic growth.

Active in the professional community, Ashley is a member of both the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the Oklahoma Society of Certified Public Accountants (OSCPA). Her commitment extends beyond professional affiliations to her role as a board member and treasurer of the Automobile Alley Association, where she actively contributes to the community's growth and vibrancy. Additionally, she serves on the board of the Oklahoma Society of Certified Public Accountants Educational Foundation, exemplifying her dedication to education and professional development.

Beyond her professional pursuits, Ashley finds joy in traveling and spending quality time with her husband, Ryan, and two children, Finn and Margot. This balance between professional excellence and a rich family life reflects Ashley's commitment to a well-rounded and fulfilling existence.

Ashley's blend of expertise, leadership, and community involvement positions her as a prominent figure in the public accounting landscape, dedicated to both professional excellence and community impact.
